

Spring Break 2004 Study Program
UF School of Art + Art History

méxico

3 credits
(ART 4930, HUM 4956, ART 6928)

March 6–13, 2004

“exploration of identity, culture, consumption, and growth on the maya riviera”

Student participants gain intensive, on-site fieldwork training in ethnography and cultural anthropology and develop new skills in interdisciplinary research methodologies as they relate to cultural studies and art making.

Program Cost: $925
(tuition, on-site housing, most meals, local transportation, selected materials and supplies). Airfare additional.

Location: Playa del Carmen, México

Language Requirement: None

Program is designed for 10–12 participants.

Application Deadline: Feb 2, 2004
(+ deposit due to the UF International Center). See Maria Rogal or UFIC at www.ufic.ufl.edu, for an application.

Program Faculty:
Professor Maria Rogal,
UF School of Art + Art History
with
Dr. Quetzil Castañeda and
Dr. Juan Castillo Cocom
Directors and Professors of the Open School of Ethnography and Anthropology, México.
www.osea-cite.org

For more information on the program, how it can support student research and project interests, and an application, contact:
Maria Rogal, Assistant Professor
School of Art and Art History,
College of Fine Arts, University of Florida
Mobile: 352 870 8878
Email: mrogal@ufl.edu

www.mariarogal.com/mexico